HERE'S WHAT ARTISTS SAY ABOUT CEDILLE

Without Cedille's recordings of my music, my career would not be where it is today. The remarkable quality of Cedille's artists and production team, coupled with the great amount of promotional work that they do, has brought my music to national and international attention. I am thrilled to be working with Cedille and the artists, and am thankful for Cedille's focus on sharing Chicago-area artists' work with the world.

— Stacy Garrop, composer

Just performing sometimes feels temporary. You perform, it's out there, it's gone. But when you record, you're creating something that's going to exist like a visual work of art. It's a permanent thing you have. It puts a stamp on it.

— Anthony McGill, clarinet

When you support Cedille, you are supporting your Chicago music community, and that's something that's amazing to be a part of. You're supporting world premiere recordings. You're supporting the commissioning of those works. And you're supporting an organization that cares so much about music and curates it in a really special and beautiful way, and is sharing that with the whole community.
